

Frikkie Booysen

Frikkie Booysen holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Stellenbosch and is attached to the Department of Economics and the Centre for Health Systems Research & Development at the University of the Free State. His main research interests are social indicators research, the poverty-health nexus, and the economics of HIV/AIDS. He has published in a number of national and international journals, including Social Science & Medicine, AIDS Care, the Journal of Human Development, Development Southern Africa and the Journal of Population, Health and Nutrition. He currently serves on the editorial boards of Social Indicators Research and the Journal of Social Aspects of HIV and AIDS.