

Mark McGillivray

Mark McGillivray is a Senior Research Fellow and Project Director at the World Institute for Development Economics Research of the United Nations University in Helsinki, Finland, an Inaugural Fellow of the Human Development and Capabilities Association (HDCA) and a Fellow of the Centre for Research on Economic Development and International Trade at the University of Nottingham. Mark's academic qualifications include a Ph.D in Development Economics from La Trobe University in Melbourne, Australia. He has worked at universities and research institutes in Europe, Australia and Asia. Mark has also worked as a consultant researcher, trainer or policy advisor for a number of international organisations, including the OECD, AusAID, DfID and the World Bank. For more than 20 years he has conducted research on a number of topics, but principally on aid effectiveness, aid allocation and inter-country well-being achievement. His papers have appeared in journals including the Journal of Development Economics, World Development, Review of Development Economics and Review of Income and Wealth.